Campus in Natolin

- 120-hectare historical park and nature reserve - formerly the Royal hunting palace of Natolin
- The Palace was built by Prince August Czartoryski in the 1780s. Different owners of the Polish aristocracy redesigned and developed the palace with the help of Italian and Polish artists and craftsmen
- Following extensive damage during WW2, the entire Natolin estate became a state property in 1945, and from 1946 onwards was closed to the public, becoming the weekend residence of the President of the Republic
- The restoration of the Palace and associated buildings and the monuments in the Park was largely completed in the 1990s.
